BRACK REED

GOES CRAZY

Young Milledgeville Bootlegger Adjudged Insane by Jury in the County Court.

Brack Reid, one of the sons of John Reid, of Milledgeville, was adjudged insane by a jury in county court Tuesday and taken to the asylum. Young Reid has 230 days yet to serve of the sentence imposed upon him in county court for bootlegging near Moreland. He is a younger brother of Charley Reid, who has been at large ever since a $3,000 fine was imposed upon him in circuit court for selling whisky illegally.

Brack Reid has been acting very peculiarly ever since being placed in jail here. Jailor DeBorde says that he would talk to himself for hours at a time, and kept the other prisoners awake at night with his noise, continually walking about, shaking the cell bars and preventing them from sleeping. He was continually saying "Take them away." Mr. DeBorde says, and the popular jailor is convinced that the young man is not in his right mind. His father, who testified at the lunacy inquest, stated that young Reid lost two small children some time ago and since then has never appeared to be just right in his head.

PROTECT CHILDREN FROM INFANTILE PARALYSIS

A wave of infantile paralysis is sweeping over the country claiming babies' lives by the hundreds. There has been little cause for alarm in this section, although five cases have been reported in Louisville. The disease is a mystery even to medical experts. They have known of it since 1840 yet are not sure what causes it nor exactly how it is spread. In fighting this plague the efforts of the average mother and father are just as important and just as needed as are those of the physicians. The disease generally breaks out in warm weather—it is another pest of the summer dangers that beset baby. Therefore many physicians conclude that it is spread by insects. Some blame the common fly. Then why can't parents strive to prevent infantile paralysis by carefully screening houses and working to do away with the breeding places of these flies—neglected manure piles, other filthiest put the blame for the disease on dirty milk. Nowadays it is a comparatively simple matter to make sure that your milk supply is pure. Why not do so and help prevent the spread of this scourge of childhood? Medical men know that the disease is spread by the contact of a sick child with well children. Prevent this by isolating children who are suffering from running nose or "snuffles." Infected nasal discharges cause much of the disease. Every householder can do much to keep down taking of this disease by simply taking a few precautions—cleaning up filth, keeping down the flies and applying a few daily habits of hygiene.

MONTGOMERY ON STUMP.

The Danville Advocate said Thursday. Hon. Charles Montgomery, who is running for Congress in this district against Hon. Harvey Helm, will address the voters of this county at Mitchellburg on Saturday afternoon, July 15th at 2 o'clock, and on the same afternoon at four o'clock he will address the voters at Perryville.

Latest War News

The Austro-Germans appear to have halted, temporarily at least, the Russian advance along the Stokhod. Both sides are reported to be hurrying huge re-enforcements of men and guns into this titanic struggle. On the lower Stripa, the Russians are striking in an effort to crush Gen. von Bothmer and flank the entire Austro-German line. The Austrians admit the Russians penetrated von Bothmer's front at some points, but assert they were driven out again in counter attacks.

Important statements regarding operations on the western front were made in London by Premier Asquith and David Lloyd-George, Secretary for War. The former, in addressing the House of Commons, said the Franco-British drive was just beginning and that it would be continued indefinitely if necessary to achieve the objective sought. Mr. Lloyd-George, presiding at a conference on equipment, said the tide of victory was now flowing in the direction of the Allies and the output of ammunition soon would be overwhelming.

WEDDING ANNOUNCEMENT.

Handsomely engraved announcements have been received here reading as follows:—
Mr. and Mrs. James H. Robinson announce the marriage of their daughter Sarah Taylor to Mr. R. Lee Rupley Tuesday, July the eleventh one thousand nine hundred sixteen Lexington, Kentucky At Home after August the first Stanford, Ky.

SCALPED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

One of the worst auto accidents in this part of the state in some time took place in Mercer county Tuesday. Wm. Lester, mail carrier out of Rose Hill, bought a new machine a few weeks ago and with his family was out in the car. His son was at the wheel and teaching Mr. Lester how to drive. The latter changed seats with his son and drove a short distance when he lost control of the machine. A long gash was cut in his head from the left ear clear back to the top of his head. The flesh was laid open from the scalp as with a knife. The skull was not fractured and while the injury is a very painful one, it is not considered serious.

Crab Orchard

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Paxton, of Stanford, were here a few days ago to see after their farm interests.

Mrs. Mary Douglas and son, Sam, Mrs. Nave and son, Mrs. Jack Elkin and daughter, of Danville, and Mrs. K. E. Harris, of Lexington, came over in their car last Sunday and spent a most pleasant day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pate King, near town.

Misses Lola and Georgia Hays, of Indiana, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Hays and other relatives here. Mr. Steve Teater came up from Stanford Wednesday to visit his mother, Mrs. Emma Farris.

Mr. Ed Rogers and wife motored from Somerset to spend Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Galen Rogers, here.

Miss Melsaida Chadwick opened her school near Preachersville on Monday.

There will be preaching at the Christian church Sunday morning and night. Everybody invited. "Old Glory" waves proudly from the lofty tower at Crab Orchard Springs.

Our sick: Mr. Alfred Davis is very low; no improvement in his case; Uncle John Edmiston continues to grow weaker; Mr. Walter Elder's little girl is about well. There are several cases of typhoid fever near the depot, mostly among the colored people; there are also several cases of measles among the children. Mrs. Ada King is quite sick. Mr. W. E. Perkins, who had quite a spell of flux, is able to be out once more. Little James, the two-year-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. James Hays, Jr., is suffering with summer complaint.

Mrs. James T. Chadwick is home after most delightful visit to her son, John, in Detroit.

Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Edmiston and son, Edward, motored to Richmond, Sunday to visit Mrs. Edmiston's father, Mr. Cochran.

Mr. S. C. Cummins, our miller, has purchased a handsome Ford car. He makes about the 25th owner of a car in our little city.

Miss Nadine McClure has returned from Paris, bringing Miss Jeannette Napier with her who will be her guest.

Mrs. Luanna Holdam, of Muskogee, Okla., is with Miss Katherine Bronaugh.

Mr. Curtis Gover, Jr., of New Decatur, Ala., has been visiting his cousin, Shirley Gover.

A wonderful flower: We are indebted to Mrs. Margaret James for a sight of the beautiful Night-Blooming Cereus. On Sunday night she sent us a full blown flower at 10 o'clock, which, at which time four of these flowers burst into full bloom. To those, who like ourselves, had never seen this flower, it may be that a description, can, in a poor way, be interesting. The flower of purest waxen white, was shaped something like the most perfect specimen of water lily, except the center. This was round and extended far into the calyx. From this center protruded a most perfect white five-petaled star and just back of it a nest of short, straw-colored pistils formed an exact image of a small manger, which, if examined by a microscope, we are told, holds a cross and crown. These were not to be seen with the naked eye. As we looked into the waxen depths of this lovely flower, we realized in the fullest sense what purity must mean and we saw that those petals of snowy whiteness were the most perfect in form that lay closest to the heart of the flower encircling the manger, and the next row was not quite so beautiful and the next still less so, and so on, until at the very outer edge, they were not only unlike the rest in shape but the color was gone a muddy greenish white, and they fell entirely away from the others clinging downward towards the stem. And we thought of the grand sermon that could be preached from this sacred flower, if only we could wield our pen as did Longfellow or Bryant, those lovers of nature. How we could picture the purest of earth, as those who keep nearest the lowly manger and upon whom the rays of that wonderful star still fall. These are the ones who can lead. These are the ones whose lives can enthrall and quicken those, who, like these outer petals, hang hopeless and weary, whose very lives cast forth a religious fervor, which, like the perfume of this wonderful flower, permeates the atmosphere all around them, speaking much plainer than words: "We are in touch with the Master." These flower petals opened wide at about 10 P. M., closing at 4 A. M., and although we put the flower in fresh water and tried hard to keep it until the next day, its petals closed firmly over the manger and shut it from view. Thus a beautiful glimpse of heaven may be found in a flower. Its closing reminded us that God will not always strive with man.

YOUNG MISCHIEF MAKERS HELD

Three Pickaninnies Caught Breaking Into Poultry Yards.

Joe Will Baughman and Buck Baughman, two small negro boys, both about 10 or 11 years of age are in the county jail on a burglary charge and will be sent to the Reform School in all probability when circuit court meets, to which they have been held over. Buster Lovell, a 9-year-old boy and their companion was released by Judge Bailey when the trio were brought before him in county court Thursday, as he is under the age that incorrigible children must have attained to enter the reform school. These pickaninnies are charged with breaking into Estill Carter's poultry pens several times. Other petty offenses are charged against them also. In fact, they with several other negro boys about their age, are continually on Main street, and seem to be looking for opportunities to commit some mischief. Much complaint has been made about them and unless some radical improvement is seen they will "go over the road" before they are much older.

LOST THEIR INFANT SON.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Carter, of Danville, formerly, of Hall's Gap, this county, have the sincere sympathy of many friends here upon the death of their little son Earl Rose Carter, who passed away a few days ago. The remains of the little one were brought back to their old home in this county for interment.

NEW HEAD OF REFORM SCHOOL

Appointed by Stanley Has Interesting Record to Qualify Him

Gov. Stanley has just had a man with a rather remarkable record appointed head of the State Reform at Greendale, where he will have direct charge of the work of making better the bad boys and girls from all over the state. A dispatch from Louisville said that the new head of the school is Ernest J. Howell, who has been named Superintendent of the Greendale House of Reform, went to Owensboro a number of years ago from West Louisville, where he was engaged as a barber and ran a "soft drink" stand. He was employed in a barber shop in Owensboro for several months, then went into the saloon business with William Powell under the firm name of Powell & Howell. While in the saloon business Howell was indicted on the charge of permitting gambling at his place. The indictment never came to trial. Howell claimed that his partner operated the game above the saloon. When Gov. Stanley was congressman in the second district he was preparing to recommend Howell for postmaster at Owensboro but suddenly withdrew his name after a strong protest had been lodged in Washington. Howell was Stanley's campaign manager in Davis county for several years. He was chairman of the campaign committee last year when Stanley came very near losing the county. On Monday Howell, who is a deputy sheriff, struck Earl Mattingly, a collector for the wholesale liquor house of George D. Mattingly & Company, at Owensboro. The young man was talking to Howell on the court house steps in regard to an account of $21.75 which was contracted by Howell last November. Howell, Mattingly alleges, suddenly struck him two vicious blows. The first blow split the young man's lips. The second, he thought, broke his nose. The young man has defective eyes and wears glasses. The glasses were broken and his face covered with blood. How he apologized to him, saying that his nasty temper got the best of him. He accompanied the young man to a store and bought him a new shirt and then paid for his glasses. It is understood that the young man is considering filing a damage suit against Howell.

Teddy Aldridge seems to be making a very satisfactory improvement from the injuries he sustained in the auto accident.

Maurice D. Spoonamore, of Louisville, formerly of the Hubble section, has bought the J. E. Davis drug store at Danville. The new owner is a son of Henry Spoonamore.

News has been received by his mother, Mrs. Della Woods, here, that her son, Higgins Woods, underwent an operation for appendicitis in Cincinnati Monday and appears to be doing nicely. Mr. Woods sustained a stroke of appendicitis Saturday and physicians advised an operation at once to save his life.

Who was he? The Danville Advocate said Thursday: Marshal C. L. Winfrey arrived in Danville this morning with a prisoner from Lincoln county, who is charged with selling liquor without government license.

Mr. E. P. Harbes died at her home, near Marksville section of Garrard county. She was a great-aunt of Mrs. J. W. Avey of this city, and was born in Lincoln county 90 years ago and lived in this county the greater part of her life.

Mrs. C. H. Campbell, with her mother, Mrs. N. P. Pruitt, arrived here Saturday from their home in Stanford, to make their home in this section. Mrs. Campbell is the wife of the popular proprietor of the Princess Cafe and they intend to settle here and give the community. We extend them a welcome in the name of the district—Moneta Ledger, Los Angeles, Cal.

Col. J. H. Daigh, of Waynesburg, was down early in the week to see his daughter, Mrs. E. C. Jordan and Mr. Jordan, the latter of whom continues very ill. Col. Daigh is a member of the estate firm of Millard & Daigh, who handle a lot of fine farm properties in the southern portion of this and in other neighboring counties. He contracted with the I. J. for several thousand catalogues showing the splendid properties his firm has for prospective home-seekers. The I. J. prints all of the up-to-date farm catalogues for real estate dealers in this section of the state.

The Danville Advocate says: Mrs. Logan Wood entertained with a beautiful party in honor of her nieces, Miss Margie Lynn, of Stanford, and Miss Margaret Claunch, of Somerset, who are her house guests. The party was given in the dining room, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion in ferns and garden flowers. Blue was the color scheme and was carried out in the table covers, place cards, flowers and confetti. The delicious salad course, with sandwiches and an ice, was served. Those present were: Miss Margie Lynn, of Stanford; Miss Margaret Claunch, of Somerset; Miss Alice Montgomery, Miss Louise Nichols, Miss Katherine Rawson, Miss Katherine Harrison, Miss Porter Hudson, Miss Margaret Wells, Miss Dorothy Mahan, Miss Elizabeth King, Miss Elizabeth Fox, Miss Annie Fox, Miss Elizabeth Harlan, Miss Curtis Beulah, Miss Joy Taylor, Miss Sara Shelby, Miss Dorothy Gansfield.

Attorney Herbert Reynolds, of this place has moved to Stanford to make his future home. He will be greatly missed by his many friends here.

LANDED HORSE THIEF

East End Young Man Charged With Theft of German's Nag.

Francis Weatherford and Jailor George F. DeBorde arrested a horse thief Thursday in Elmer Denny, a youth of 22, of the Broughtontown section of the county. He had purloined a good horse belonging to a German of his section named Grishoff and was attempting to sell the animal. He called on John M. Cress at his home near Preachersville, and was insisted on that gentleman buy him at $50. Mr. Cress grew suspicious and phoned the authorities here. Denny had left Mr. Cress' overcoat him and brought him to town and placed him in jail. A big gun was found on the youngster, who will likely remain in jail until the next term of circuit court. The horse was returned to its owner.

COL. WALTON PRESS AGENT

For Democratic Campaign in Kentucky—A Good Selection.

The Wilson-Marshall campaign in Kentucky will be officially begun in Kentucky when the Democrats open headquarters at the Seelbach hotel in Louisville on August 14. This decision was arrived at by State Campaign Chairman J. Campbell Cantrell, and his committee members in conference at the Capital Hotel at Frankfort. The committee members in attendance were Eli H. Brown, Jr., Dr. Milton Board, S. W. Hager, Forrest Butts, Tom Pannell, secretary.

The speaking campaign will be in charge of Congressman Arthur B. Rouse, and will begin about September 1.

Col. W. P. Walton, formerly of Stanford and one of the best known newspaper men in the state, now living in Lexington, was chosen head of the press bureau, and will soon start actively to work. For the present his headquarters will be in Lexington. He will have his office at the State Headquarters, when they are opened.

As chief of the campaign press bureau Col. Walton was given authority to employ what assistance he needs in the way of stenographers to conduct an aggressive publicity campaign. Col. Walton was chief of the campaign press bureau four years ago, being appointed at that time by Campaign Chairman Johnson N. Camden.

SPLINTER PIERCED HIS CHEST

Former Casey Boy Meets Horrible Death in Motorcycle Race

A friend of the I. J. in Indianapolis sends in the following account of the untimely death of Albert S. Blankenship, who was killed there last week in a motorcycle accident. He was well known in this section:

Albert Scott Blankenship, aged 24, was killed almost instantly July 4th afternoon when the motorcycle upon which he had just finished the 10-mile course at the state fair grounds smashed into the fence at the first turn past the finish mark. His body was hurled thro' the air for a distance of 20 feet, striking as it landed a special policeman, who suffered a fractured leg and other injuries. The dead man was an amateur rider and had competed in a few races previous to the Fourth. He had just finished this race and was rounding the turn to slow down after the final lap. Suddenly he seemed to lose control of his machine. The motorcycle swerved in its course and dashed into a pole on the side of the track, a large sliver of wood from which penetrating the young man's chest, causing almost instant death. Blankenship was employed in a mattress factory. When he finished his work Monday and started away the foreman begged him not to enter the races the next day, telling him that if he did so, he might have to advertise for another mattress finisher. The boys who work of with him also urged him not to risk his life, but he could not be dissuaded and told his fellow workmen if he was killed to throw in 25 cents a "piece and buy forget-me-nots for his funeral, which was what they did.

Blankenship's mother is Mrs. Minerva Blankenship, 230 McKim avenue. She came from Casey county, where her children were small and made Indianapolis her home. "Aunt" Minerva has tried hard to raise her children and keep her little family together. Now they are all grown. She has a son in the army. Scott had not been out of the army very long. He was the only support his mother had. Scott was a nice young man and had many friends in his adopted home. The factory in which he worked was shut down at the time of his funeral. He is survived by his mother, two brothers, Lonzy, who is in the army at Columbus, New Mexico, John Frank, of Indianapolis and two sisters, Mrs. Ed Coffman, of Edgewood, Ind., Mrs. Harry Nutter and Mrs. Joe O'Connell of Indianapolis. He had many friends and relatives in Lincoln and Casey counties, Kentucky.—A friend, O. J. Coffman.

CARTERS LEASE

ST. ASAPH HOTEL

Plan to Make Old Hostelry One of Which Stanford and Traveling Public Will Be Proud.

Much interest was aroused this week by the announcement that Messrs. B. D. and Carl Carter, father and son, have leased the St. Asaph Hotel from E. C. Jordan, and will assume charge the 15th. It is understood that the young Mr. Carter will be actively in charge, giving all of his time to the hotel, assisted by his wife and mother, so that his father may give all of the time necessary to the City Marshalship.

The Messrs. Carter plan to make a number of improvements in the famous old hostelry and place it upon a modern, and up-to-date basis which will make it one of the most popular small town hotels in the state. The hotel will be completely renovated, and new furniture bought and other improvements made.

Special attention will be paid to the cuisine, it is understood, and it is the intention of the new proprietors to make the St. Asaph a hotel that Stanford and the traveling public will have cause to be proud of.

As the body of the caddy was carried from the field all the women in the party fell on their knees and prayed.

Judge For Yourself

Which is Better—Try an Experiment Or Profit By a Stanford Citizen's Experience

Something new is an experiment. Must be proved to be as representative.

The statement of a manufacturer is not convincing proof of merit. But the endorsement of friends is. Now supposing you had a bad back, A lame, weak or aching knee
